Age limit applies to passengers who are not accompanied by parents or a legal guardian.

A guardian must be at least 25 years old to take responsibility for underaged travelers. A guardian is someone travelling in place of a parent or other legal guardian.

The guardian takes full responsibility for the passenger under the age limit and is economically liable for any loss, damage and/or vandalism caused by the underage passenger for whom the guardian is responsible.

There must be at least one guardian per five children or teenagers on cruises and at least one guardian per 10 children or teenagers during regular passenger service.

Guardians must submit a completed guardian form at least two days prior to departure.

Please, send the guardianship to:
